THE ODNEY CLUB

A hidden gem

Nestled in the heart of the English countryside is The Odney Club.

Located within the charming village of Cookham in Berkshire, we are a private members' club, hotel, and conference venue all rolled into one. The river is our soundtrack to genuine connections, quiet indulgence and shared experiences.

Exclusively for the enjoyment of its Partners and members, their families and friends, The Odney Club offers a unique, inviting experience in a picturesque riverside setting.

About Odney

John Speden Lewis, the founder of the John Lewis Partnership, was a keen naturalist. The Odney Club was first acquired by Spedan Lewis as a place for Partners to enjoy a variety of sports and social activities. They could stay for the weekend, for a holiday or even live on site in the clubs rented rooms.

The Odney Club's expansive grounds extend to 95 acres of beautiful Berkshire countryside on the banks of the River Thames. Ranging from manicured gardens and parkland, including shrub and herbaceous borders, tree-lined avenues and colourful seasonal bedding displays, to wildlife-rich meadows and a tranquil water garden. We also host a variety of meeting spaces and leading food and drink facilities. Imagine evenings filled with delightful tasting sessions, energising live music, and a host of other uniquely crafted experiences. There's always something special happening.
